My entire family enjoys listening to XM Radio daily. We have it in both vehicles and one is moveable to the home stereo. I have two children ages 4 and 15. I value the fact that I do not have to constantly worry about what some DJ will say, or listen to some commercial about Viagra while in the vehicles with my kids. More importantly is the fact that I commute over 100 miles daily. In the Baltimore metro area during rush hour I may have to wait up to twenty minutes between traffic reports. I would pay more for the instant traffic and weather that is now available. I can also get traffic reports in the middle of the day and not just between 6-9 AM or 3-6 PM. There are traffic problems at noon, but local radio stations may get around to mentioning them between commercials.
